Tennessee Set to Host Gelbvieh Eastern Regional Show

The Tennessee Gelbvieh Association and Tennessee Gelbvieh Junior Association are joining forces with the American Gelbvieh Junior Association (AGJA) to host the 2008 Eastern Regional Gelbvieh Show. This event is set for June 20-22 at the Middle Tennessee State University Livestock Center in Murfreesboro, Tenn.

This two-day event will feature contests and educational opportunities for junior Gelbvieh members. It is a chance for AGJA members to hone their skills before heading to the 2008 AGJA Blue Ridge Classic in North Carolina, July 6-11. Contests featured at the Eastern Regional include Poster, Photo, Advertising, Sales Talk and Showmanship.

On Sunday, June 22 the weekend will wrap up with shows featuring bred & owned bulls, market steers, Balancer females and Gelbvieh females.

A complete entry packet and rules are available at the Gelbvieh website, www.gelbvieh.org, or individuals can request a packet by calling Dana Stewart, AGA Director of Junior Activities, 303-465-2333 or email her at danas@gelbvieh.org. Entry deadline is May 15, 2008 for the AGJA Western Regional Show.
